Managers of Election.

At the last general election the County Commissioners of election and the precinct managers received no pay for their arduous services. The Legislature at its last session, however, provided and appropriated a certain sum to pay the Commissioners and managers of future legal elections. This was a wise and proper proceeding on its part, for it is not just to require the services of citizens for the good of the State and expect them to give their time and attention to its affairs for the fun of the thing.

Renomination of Solicitor Bonham.

As we write at noon on Tuesday—the counties of Kershaw, Richland, Lexington and Edgefield, by their representatives in Columbia assembled are by acclamation nominating R. G. Bonham, Esq., of Edgefield, for reelection to the office of Solicitor of the 5th Judicial Circuit of South Carolina. This is a manifestation of confidence in the character and ability of our brilliant townsman which he fully deserves. His first four years in this important judicial position vindicate the wisdom of keeping him in it.

Their Names

The Executive Committee of the National Democratic Committee, as lately appointed, is as follows: William H. Barnum, Connecticut, Chairman ex officio; A. F. Gorman, B. F. Jones, Louisiana; Hubert O. Thompson, New York; William A. Wallace, Pennsylvania; John S. Barbour, Virginia; William F. Vilas, Wisconsin; Austin H. Brown, Indiana; M. M. Ham, Iowa; H. D. McHenry, Kentucky; P. H. Kelly, Minnesota; Bradley B. Smalley, Vermont; A. W. Suloway, Vermont; F. W. Dawson, South Carolina; W. W. Armstrong, Ohio; Miles Ross, New Jersey; S. Corning Judd, Illinois; J. B. Barnaby, Rhode Island; John G. Prather, Missouri.

Upon Our Sole Responsibility.

Some weeks back we mentioned in our columns a rumor we had heard that a certain five out of our ten candidates for the Legislature would run, or be regarded and voted for, as disunionists. We mentioned this rumor solely and absolutely upon our own thought and impulse—without having exchanged a word with any living soul in regard to its advisability or effect. And we now make this statement because we hear that in certain quarters, certain candidates for the Legislature, living in and near our town, are suspected, if not actually accused, of having had something to do with advising or inspiring the publication of the said rumor. No candidate, nor any other man, deserves either censure or praise in connection with the matter. The ADVERTISER may espouse a cause or a side. It certainly never becomes in any degree the servant of a ring or clique.

Initiatory Steps to a County Agricultural Association.

On Monday last, a goodly number of leading farmers and citizens from different sections of our County met in our Court House to take steps towards the organization of a County Agricultural Association.

On motion, Mr. Rainford Cantelon, of our immediate vicinity, was chosen temporary Chairman, and Mr. W. T. Walton of Vidette Springs, requested to act as Secretary. Mr. Cantelon and Mr. Walton, on account of their practical success in farming and their spirit of agricultural progress, have become prominent throughout our County. Speeches were made by the Hon. W. S. Allen, Mr. A. J. Norris, Capt. B. R. Tillman, Col. H. W. Addison, Capt. Geo. B. Lake, and last, but by no means least, by the Hon. George D. Tillman, who was present, and who responded in a very happy and earnest manner to the call made upon him by his admiring fellow citizens.

Some fifty odd names were at once signed to a roll of membership. After considerable practical discussion, it was decided, that a permanent organization should not be effected upon the spot, but that a committee of five should be appointed by the Chair to draft a Constitution and By-Laws, and present them at a meeting to be held on Saturday in September. The said committee consists of the following gentlemen: Messrs. A. J. Norris, B. R. Tillman, W. E. Prescott, M. A. Markert and W. S. Allen.

These gentlemen will do their work with their heads and hearts fully in it, and all the signs point now to the growing up of an Association that will be worthy of the county that stands first in South Carolina in the production of cotton—and fifth in the Southern States.

The Campaign Meeting at Kinard's.

THE DEAD ISSUE.

The first of the nine official appointed campaign meetings took place at Kinard's, in Rinehart Township, on Saturday last. The gathering was very respectable in numbers, but the overwhelming crowd of 1882 was not there. The ladies were out in sufficient force to lend charm and refinement to the occasion.

Col. E. J. Goggans, of Hulet Township, was chosen Chairman of the meeting, and presided with dignity and ready tact. Mr. J. M. Forrest, of Mine Creek, was requested to act as Secretary.

In the beginning of the meeting—in its political aspect—Mr. Forrest offered a Resolution, or Resolutions, to the effect that no candidate should be called upon to define his position in regard to the division of the County. This proposition was endorsed by a large majority; and consequently the play subsequently was that of Hamlet with the role of Hamlet left out.

The following gentlemen made speeches: Messrs. Timmerman, Talbert, Jones, Folk, Brooker, Ready, Cheatham, Brooks, Turner. Hamlet having been eliminated from the play, the speakers—it was not their fault—had little to do but to whoop up the old flag and go back to the discovery of America.

As we understand it, the motive of our honored friends and fellow citizens of Rinehart in placing the discussion of the County question beyond a possibility, was a wise and good one, viz.: that considering the division of the County a dead issue, they deemed such discussion unnecessary and mischievous.

Until there shall be a general reduction of the area of Counties throughout our State, we are glad to know that the issue is dead.

In the meantime, however, we take the liberty of warning the friends of the territorial integrity of old Edgefield that they were caught napping once. In the future they had best keep their eyes wide open.

Edgefield Is Proud of Him.

On Friday next, in Barnwell, the Hon. George D. Tillman, of Edgefield, will be nominated for reelection as member of Congress from the 2nd District of South Carolina. Edgefield is proud of him, and will be rejoiced to see him go back to Washington, with an experience that fits him for a still broader sphere of action. He will be powerful in furthering wise legislation, in defeating impracticable measures, and in manifesting an independence that compels respect, and an eloquence of speech and sincerity of purpose that carry conviction.

The Sunday School Convention.

It is a matter of deep regret with us that serious illness enforced our absence from the late Baptist Sunday School Convention at Horn's Creek.

And that in consequence of such absence we cannot describe its sessions, nor pay it the respect due its eminent usefulness and yearly progress. For several years past we have rejoiced to attend these gatherings, seeing and feeling the high and holy effect of Sunday School work in our County. The Convention at Horn's Creek was not behind its predecessors in manifestations of piety, zeal and progress. And as to the fraternal love and princely hospitality of the Horn's Creek people, we have too often seen them exemplified to dream that they were at all lacking on this auspicious occasion.

Hon. Patrick Walsh of the National Executive Committee.

The election of the Hon. Patrick Walsh, of the Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist, as the member from Georgia of the National Executive Committee of the Democratic party, was an honor to Georgia as well as to himself. He will make an excellent member, being the very man of all the State for the place. One dominant trait of Mr. Walsh which no man can fail to admire, is his ever lasting adhesion to the principle he believes to be right. A man of clear head and live conscience, he is ever analytical and scrupulous prior to the assumption of a position, but when his mind is made up, his Irish grit is there to stay. He may aptly be called a civilized Davy Crockett, for when he believes he is right "he goes ahead."

Preparations for the Campaign.

The State Democratic Executive Committee, General James F. Izlar presiding, met in Columbia on Wednesday night of last week, to outline the work of the approaching campaign. Committees were appointed, of which the following named gentlemen are Chairmen: Committee on Finance—J. W. Williamson, Darlington. Committee on Canvass—Geo. D. Bryan, Charleston. Committee on Campaign Documents—G. W. Croft, Aiken. Committee on Printing—F. W. Dawson, Charleston.

The Executive Committee decided to make a vigorous canvass of the State in furtherance of which appointments will be made for all the Counties.

The candidates for State offices will not be required to attend all the meetings, but one or more of them will carry on the canvass in the various Counties.

The canvass will not be commenced before the 1st of September, and probably not until later date. The manner of conducting the campaign is in the hands of the Committee on Canvass.

Notice to Democratic Clubs.

The votes of those clubs that do not immediately forward to James T. Bacon, Secretary of the Democratic Executive Committee, the names of three Managers and one clerk for the ensuing primary election cannot and will not be counted. The time for forwarding the names has already passed. This is the third notice that has been given and no further notice can be given. The Clubs that have not yet forwarded the names of their managers and clerks are the following to wit: Bookkeeper, Coopersville No. 1, Cooper-Hill No. 2, Emory Chapel, Hillier, Meeting Street, Mount Ebron and Rebooth.

Chair, Dem. Ex. Com. E. C.

From the News and Courier.

A Card from Capt. F. W. Dawson.

NEW YORK, Thursday, July 31, '84.—I have just learned that a paragraph has appeared in some of the newspapers of South Carolina saying that it is reported that I am ambitious to be Gen. Hampton's successor in the United States Senate. It is due to myself as any that, in my judgment, Senator Hampton deserves to be, and will be, his own censor, and that, furthermore, I am not a candidate for any public office, high or low, and will not accept any such, at this time or hereafter. South Carolina can command my services whenever there is work to be done for the public good; but I have no ambitions or hopes outside of my profession as a journalist, and, for such services as I am able to render, I desire and can accept no other reward than the confidence and good-will of my fellow-citizens.

F. W. DAWSON.

The Execution of Wilson Stephens.

Wilson Stephens, the murderer of W. H. Steifer, was hanged in our jail on Friday last. Our enterprising neighbor the Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist, sent a reporter to witness the scene. We copy his admirable account of it:

Thursday night Stephens slept well in his cell. On Friday morning he ate heartily at breakfast, remarking that he wanted to eat more, but was impatient to get at his devotions. Rev. Lymus Simmons, a colored Baptist preacher, was engaged with him from early in the morning until his execution.

Nearing the Gallows.

When the Chronicle reporter entered the upper corridor of the Edgefield jail yesterday morning, about an hour before the appointed time, Stephens was kneeling beside his spiritual adviser. He was free from manacles of any kind, was neatly dressed, his hands and feet being encased in white gloves and new slippers. His face was a happy look; his demeanor, however, denoted a wandering mind, and suppressed excitement showed itself in every glance. The preacher closed his Bible, "not because you all have come in," he said, as he nodded to the reporters, but because we have just finished reading a chapter in John. Stephens arose and smiled. He was a most prepossessing looking boy—a bright mulatto, well knit; large, restless eyes, white teeth, and with his kinky hair parted in the middle. He looked like a clean, smart, colored barber. He said he had confessed his crime and was convinced of the justice of his sentence. He knew God had forgiven him and he wanted everybody here to do the same. He smiled.

Uncle George Afraid His Neighbors Would Laugh!

On Tuesday the great summer meeting of the State Grand and State Agricultural and Mechanical Society in Greenville was formally opened. Captain O. P. Miller delivered the address of welcome, a Col. D. Duncan responded.

When he talked, and it was evident to a close observer that he did not even remotely appreciate the significance of the hour or the awfulness of his doom. He was quick, intelligent, could read and write, and was far above the average of his race in natural faculties, but his lack of sensibility was evident. Probably his freedom from pain over his doom was the most painful attendant upon the execution.

The Execution.

The gallows was erected in the upper story of the jail, just at the second landing on the stairs. A double trap door furnished the platform, and this was held together by an upright, broken with a hinge by means of which the support could be withdrawn. A wire connected this movable part of the trigger with the Sheriff who stood out of sight on the stairs below. The prisoner was taken charge of by jailor B. P. Covar, shortly after midday and submitted quietly while being prepared for the gallows. When he was passing through the well lighted hall he turned to the circular window overlooking the street and called out to the crowd on the outside in a clear, ringing voice his last farewell.

He moved upon the trap door without perceptible fear. The death warrant was read to him and in his place, he looked to the crowd and who, with his child, was waiting in the passage way below. He also asked that one of his photographs taken that morning be turned over to her.

The rope was adjusted by jailer Covar and the trap was sprung upon a given signal by Sheriff Ouzts, who was concealed below. The body fell fully five feet and there were only a few convulsive movements. He was quite dead in eleven minutes and in eighteen minutes Dr. W. D. Jennings, the attending physician, allowed the body to be cut down. His neck was broken by the fall. The remains were placed in a plain coffin and driven over to Simmonds Ridge Church, where last evening they were buried.

Conclusion.

The execution was conducted in a quiet and orderly manner. Only a sufficient number of persons were admitted into the jail and the crowd around the iron grates fences was small. Sheriff Ouzts and Jailor Covar, who have assisted in the hanging of four and of five men respectively, managed everything with celerity and promptness; shunning all possible severity, but carrying the decree of the law to its terrible and irreversible conclusion. These officers are men of humanity, but heeded the demand of justice with firmness and good faith.

It is honorable to the people of Edgefield county that no large crowd congregated in the town. The numerous vehicles and hurrying crowds along the roadways were intent upon attending the White and colored church revivals in the neighborhood, and not upon exaggerating with idle curiosity the details of a secluded and solemn execution of the law.

The Rev. O. M. Miller has resigned his pastoral relations with the Baptist Church at Ninety Six, in Abbeville County, and also with the Fellowship and Sileam.

Destruction of Saluda Factory.

Saluda Factory, near Columbia, was entirely destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon last. From the Register we gather the following facts:

The factory and contents were valued at $150,000, the machinery alone being valued at more than $100,000. The entire building and machinery were a total loss.

The total insurance is $118,750, of which Leaphart & Black represent $37,500; W. O. Swaffield $12,000; W. Seibles $11,000; Geo. K. Wright $2,500; Mobley & English $2,500. The remainder of the insurance was placed by New York parties, and distributed throughout the insurance companies of the North, South, East and West and in foreign countries. The rate of insurance was 26 10.

Saluda is a village owned by the proprietor of the factory, Mr. William Johnson, and consists of a comfortable double tenement of one story each. The inhabitants, all told, number about 400 souls, including the colored population. Of these about 200 are children. The operatives number from 130 to 150, including children and 15 colored persons.

The pay roll of the factory some months ago was estimated at $400 per week, the operatives receiving from $25 cents to $2.50 per day. The rent for the factory was $100 per month.

The factory was a substantial frame structure, three stories in height, with a stone foundation. The building was 200 feet long by 50 feet wide. It was first built in 1844 by David Ura and at successive stages of its history was owned or operated by Messrs. Edward Fisher, James G. Gibbes, Johnson, Childs & Willard, Johnson, Childs & Palmer, until it finally became the property of Mr. Wm. Johnson. The factory was enlarged and improved by its managers as its successful operation continued, until Sherman came through the State in February, 1865, when it was swept from the face of the earth by the incendiary's torch.

It was rebuilt in a few years after, at a cost of $25,000 or $30,000, and has been improved machinery up to and including the present year. And yesterday it was again laid in ashes, but the origin of the conflagration is involved in mystery, which, one of the insurance agents states, will be investigated, a lot from whence the flames first issued was unused, except as a lumber room, where worthless articles were stored.

The women and children dried bitterly yesterday when they saw the factory crumbling to ashes, and their thoughts were turned to the fact that with hearts full of doubt as to what was in store for them. It is a terrible thing to see from four to five hundred poor people, largely women and children, thrown out of employment without bread and meat in the house and without money to buy the common necessities of life. The poor went to their rest last night with mingled feelings of hope and fear as to the future of Saluda Factory.
